Member received a return call from Dr. AVIS, who is the Dr. in charge of the DUNPHY shooting. Member asked Dr. AVIS about the hand positron of the deceased as noted in the scene photos. Dr. AVIS said the hand position of the deceased does not mean that was his hand position before he was shot. Dr. AVIS added that it would be possible to move the body for a certain time post mortem. Member explained the reason for questions on this about whether the police officer involved moved the body in any way, also if there may have been any sort of a struggle or altercation. Dr. AVIS said that scene evidence indicated that DUNPHY was indeed in seated the the chair when he was shot due to trajectory and the fact there was brain matter on the back of the chair. He also advised that as part of his autopsy report he will speak to any other injuries besides the bullet wounds. Dr. AVIS mentioned the fact that the police officer entered the residence believing that there was no firearms present and then one was presented. (This was contradict any theory that the police officer would have placed any firearm at the scene, not knowing there was a firearm there and the last known location of one would have been behind the couch (Meghan DUNPHY statement).

Member called Cpl. LEE to ascertain why no fingerprints were found on the DUNPHY rifle. Cpl LEE responded that there were issues with both the barrel and the stock of the gun including dirt, rust and the varnish was worn off. Cpl. Member received a written statement from Meghan DUNPHY Re: found bullet. The following is a cut and paste of that statement:

Today June 11, 2015 I went down to Dad's house to feed the cats, after I put some food out on the doorstep I went in the house to check on things. While inside I realized that the TV in the living room was still plugged in. I have nearly everything else in the house unplugged as there is nothing being used down there anymore. I had left the TV plugged in and turned on to the music station for the cats up until about a week ago when I got the last few cats outside.

The TV was plugged into a power bar in the corner of the living room between the mantle piece and the front window. There is a vacuum cleaner in the corner and a rocking chair partially pushed in the corner near a speaker. I crouched down and unplugged the TV from the power bar and turned to leave the living room and go to the kitchen. When I turned and stepped out of the corner I heard something roll across the floor as if I had kicked it. First thought I figured it was a screw, but when I looked down I seen something I didn't really recognize. Just some small metal thing with a black top which looked like rubber to me. I picked it up and looked at it closer and realized it was some sort of bullet. I then quickly laid it down on top of the Rubbermaid tub that is on the living room floor. I then googled bullets on my phone to make sure that it was in fact a bullet. I took some pictures of the bullet and called Erin.
