I'm in contact with Erin Breen. All is fine. She wanted to attend the meeting with Justice Riche and Meghan at the residence in morning but she is in court. I advised that we will postpone. I will also attend res in morning to attend to found bullet

I'm assuming all relevant evidence was seized including bullets and spent cases. This found bullet had no relevance?

Sir,

I couldn't reach Cpl Burke so I called Sgt Saunders. Sgt Saunders states that FIS located all rounds and casings from Cst Smyth's weapon. Given there is no evidence that Mr Dunphy fired his weapon and there was one round located and seized from the chamber of his single shot rifle, he sees no relevance to any unspent rounds located in the room. He did document an unspent round on the coffee table directly in front of Mr Dunphy, but didn't seize it for the same reason.

Given there is definitely at least one 'spare' bullet that was not seized, numerous cats in the house, and the room having been re-arranged and cleaned, I feel it is likely the same bullet having been displaced. Even if that's not the case, if it's an unspent .22 bullet, I don't see the relevance either.

I called Ms Breen and she stated she had a "bad situation on her hands", that Ms Dunphy found a bullet (unknown caliber) on the floor of the living room between the mantle and the window. She states Ms Dunphy is extremely upset about this. She further stated she has sent Cpl Burke all the information on that as well as further issues surrounding a planned meeting tomorrow that would need to be postponed.

Given she had reached out to Cpl Burke already and had explained everything, neither Ms Breen or I saw the use in inserting another person (me) in the mix. She was more than happy to wait for a response from him. She explained that she reached out to the C.O. as that is who she has been corresponding with, but she clearly expects to hear from Burke on this issue, not the C.O. so I didn't even bring it up.

I would suggest we ensure its an unspent .22 caliber, not something else. If it is, I don't see why we would require it.

Kent/ Steve

Pls ensure the reply to Erin Breen is professional and courteous. She wants to make an issue about this. As Kent informed there were bullets observed/noted at the scene that had no evidential value or relevance and were not seized. All relevant bullets spent/unspent were seized.

Also Steve pls advise Ms Breen after you inform her about the bullet her client found that the CO will not be speaking to her about an on going investigation.

Let me know how you make out. CO wants me to up date her.

Thks

Pat
